EXPERT OPTOMETRISTS AND OPTICIANS.

In The Public Ledger we have carried and are still carrying, the advertisement of Dr. B. Kahn and his son, Dr. M. G. Kahn, whose offices are located in the O'Keefe building on Market street. There also appeared in the columns of The Ledger another advertisement which seemed to reflect somewhat upon the character and ability of the two doctors.

What has been said might have been construed as being of a personal nature, and have caused these gentlemen's ability and business to be questioned. After investigations we feel that whatever courtesy, they are entitled to should be extended to them. They are graduate optometrists from the best school of their kind in this country. They are the proprietors of the Ideal Optical Company, of Cincinnati, O., with offices at 925-927 Central avenue. Their offices are elegantly appointed and equipped with up-to-date appliances for carrying on their profession. They have a complete optical store. They are spoken of very highly by their associates in business as gentlemen of character and refinement.

In this city, by those who have had business dealings with them, they are regarded very highly. Their patients speak in most complimentary terms in regard to their work and do not hesitate to recommend them to others.

Some seven or eight months ago these gentlemen came to Maysville comparatively strangers, and opened their offices in their present pleasant location. From the start they have been compelled to spend their time largely in their offices, having been attending to calls from the surrounding country in addition to their large and growing city practice. It is one of the new enterprises that Maysville extends a cordial welcome.

We always like to welcome business men of integrity and character to our community, and desire to give them the right kind of treatment. So, we commend them to the good treatment of Maysville and Mason county.

Miss Jane Drennan, of Cincinnati, who is visiting Miss Beulah Ingram, will leave on Wednesday for Ashland to visit relatives and friends.

De Kalb Lodge of Oddfellows will hold their regular meeting tonight.

WOMAN'S CLUB ENTERTAINS.

The Silver Tea given at the Elks' Home last Friday afternoon by the Woman's Club was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season.

A delightful program had been arranged, which was as follows:
Chorus by the Girls' Glee Club of the High School, under the able guidance of Miss Hartlerode, Supervisor of Music in the city schools.
Miss Lucy Smith's song, "Mother McCrete," was a delight to the audience.
Mrs. George Longnecker, president of the Woman's Club, in a most pleasing manner then told the purpose of the tea and introduced Mrs. Eugene Merz, whose reading of "The Music of the Tappanhamock," with the musical accompaniment by Mrs. Geisel, was thoroughly enjoyed.

The speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Dr. R. L. Benn, of the Central Presbyterian church, held the individual attention of the audience as he spoke on "The Ideal Peace." Chautauquas may come and Chautauquas may go, but seldom do they bring to us a finer or more cultured lecturer than our own Dr. Benn. It was the regret of the club that all of Maysville could not have heard this gem given by Dr. Benn.

Mrs. Haugh, of Chicago, a most charming visitor in our midst, entertained the audience with a reading, "How Birdie Learned Delsart," which was so applauded that the most gracious lady, gave Eugene Fields' poem "Seeing Things."
This concluded the program, after which a delightful hour was spent, when the hostesses served a cup of "good cheer" and sandwiches.

Long live the Mason County Woman's Club.

FORMER MAYSVILLIAN

Colonel Ben La Bree's Antecedent Recast Liberty Bell, and He Was Born In Sight of Its Home.

Colonel Ben La Bree, of Louisville, formerly of this city, author of "The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," and "Campfires of the Confederacy," is a direct descendant on his father's side of Charles Stow, who recast Liberty Bell in 1752, and a grandson on his mother's side of William Fannoe, who was City Commissioner of Philadelphia in 1800 when a visit of the Prince of Wales resulted in the reclamation of the bell from a rubbish heap in the cellar of the State House and in rechristening it as America's greatest relic.

"I was born within sight of the State House, which has been called Independence Hall since the Centennial in 1876, and have seen Liberty Bell hundreds of times," Colonel La Bree said. "When the Prince of Wales, who afterward became King Edward VI., visited Philadelphia, I was a shaver 5 years old, but I remember seeing him. After the prince had been wined and dined he was shown through the State House. He saw many relics, of course, but he kept looking and looking as if he wanted to see something else. Finally someone asked him if there was anything else he wanted to see, and he replied: 'I don't see what you people call Liberty Bell.'"

"All the notables who were entertaining him were dumbfounded. None of them, including my grandfather, knew what had become of the bell. Naturally they felt chagrined. They started a search and were successful. Finally they asked the janitor, who had been there thirty years, and he told them the bell was in the cellar under a pile of rubbish. The whole company, including the prince, went down and, digging away the rubbish, took a look at it. The prince at that time said: 'If that bell was owned by England it would be the most sacred object in the whole realm.'"

"The bell was then placed in the corridor of the State House. Afterward it was hung up in the corridor by a chain nine feet from the ground. Since the Centennial it has received its proper recognition, but if it had not been for the Prince of Wales it might never have been resurrected from the trash pile.

"This story may perhaps be denied in Philadelphia, because they would be ashamed to admit it. I know that it is true, though, because I read it in my grandfather's diary and heard him tell it many times. It was a well known and authenticated story when I was a young fellow living in Philadelphia."

Colonel La Bree is a descendant, eight times removed, of Charles Stow, of the firm of Pass & Stow, who recast Liberty Bell. Charles Stow, he said, was doorkeeper of the Provisional Council of Philadelphia in 1752, when the bell was recast. He was not in the bell business, but was entrusted with the task of recasting the bell because he had learned the business in England. Charles Stow's name may be seen on the bell.

Colonel La Bree and R. C. Thurston Ballard, who is generally recognized as the best patriotic historian in America, agree that Liberty Bell was placed in the State House cellar and lost sight of in 1846, eleven years after it had cracked while being tolled as the funeral cortège of Chief Justice John Marshall passed the State House.

DR. GEORGE DEVINE.

Mr. George Devine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Devine, of Market street, who has been in Philadelphia, Pa., for the last several months taking a course in optometry, returned home on Monday after graduating with high honors.

Basket Ball Notes

The Maysville High School boys' basketball team will tackle the speedy Dayton High School Friday evening at the M. H. S. gymnasium. The Dayton boys have been very successful this season and say they will break the string of victories of the locals, but the Gold and White boys think they are mistaken and will try to show them otherwise. Coach Dale will put his men through a stiff practice against the night school team this week and will have the squad in splendid condition when the down-river boys make their appearance. He plans to rush the Dayton crew off their feet by using all the men available in the game. The extreme closeness of the playing ability of each member of the M. H. S. squad makes the shifting of players possible without impairing any of the aggressiveness of the quintet. The classy playing of the locals during the last two weeks has attracted the attention of the lovers of the net game in this vicinity and each performance is drawing larger crowds. In view of this fact the management has made special arrangements to care for a large crowd Friday evening.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Elevator Falls Three Stories With Clerk Who Saves Life by Jumping.

Mr. Max Willett, employed as a shoe salesman in the Barkley Shoe Company's store on West Second street, had a narrow escape from death Monday about 12:30 o'clock.

Young Willett was waiting on a customer and in attending to his wants, it was necessary for him to get some stock from the third floor of the building. He made the up-trip in the elevator all right, but in coming down the cogwheel in some manner broke and the conveyance and its operator were plunged down three stories. As the falling machine passed the first floor Willett clung to an iron guard-rail and in a few seconds had climbed over the railing to safety.

No sooner had his feet touched the floor than the cogwheel started to fall, barely missing him and snapping a steel cable in two. The end of one of the strands struck him on the temple and cut an ugly gash.

Had young Willett remained on the elevator a tragedy might have been the result, as the floor of the carriage was badly mashed by the falling of the heavy cogwheel. The elevator was placed out of commission by the accident and will require several days to repair it. Young Willett, aside from the cut on his head and a severe nervous shock, was unhurt and was able to resume his duties in a short time.

ABOUT FURS
Every woman loves beautiful furs. Few understand how to tell a dyed from a natural fur, a piece from a whole skin, a blended from an entirely natural fur. Nor are they always sure what constitutes a good fur—whether the color should be light or dark, whether the hair should be long or short.
Most people know in a general way, but we know in a particular way—we should after thirty years experience in fur buying. It is wonderfully satisfactory to choose from a fur stock like ours, where you know every piece has been individually selected by some one who really knows fur quality and only admits a piece of fur when positive it is the very best possible for the price.
All the inexpensive furs are represented in barrel or pillow muffs, in scarfs and sets.
Muffs $1.50 to $25. Scarfs $2.50 to $19. Sets $10 to $35.
Notable Facts About Our Suits at $16.50, $19.50 and $22.50

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

When the Chamber of Commerce met Thursday night and formally organized, it did the right thing; and when it adopted a course of work for the next year, it acted wisely; and when the officers were elected another laurel was added to its crown.

So far, everything the Chamber of Commerce has done has been the correct thing, and the start seems to be propitious.

The constitution and by-laws are all that could be asked and the planks of work mapped out are great and open a large field to do something for Maysville.

With such men as Mr. E. T. Kirk at the head of the organization, Mr. Thomas H. Gray vice president; Mr. Thomas A. Keith, treasurer; Hon. W. D. Cochran, director of organization; Mr. A. L. Merz, director of business affairs; Mr. W. Holton Key, director of civic work; Hon. Stanley F. Reed, director of agricultural affairs, and Captain H. J. Cochran, director of industrial affairs, there is every assurance that Maysville will be on the map good and proper from now on.

The slogan "Buy It in Maysville" should be heralded from the housetops and hills afar, and every member of the Chamber ought to pledge himself and family to buy everything possible in Maysville. If we want prosperity in this town we MUST BUY IT IN MAYSVILLE. Members, it's up to you.

Let every citizen plug, push, talk and yell for Maysville—a greater Maysville—a bigger Maysville—a more prosperous Maysville.

BUY IT IN MAYSVILLE AND YOU WILL ACCOMPLISH THIS.

The Ledger is with the Chamber of Commerce in this great work mapped out and stands ready to help push to success their efforts in every way possible.

Here's to Maysville's Chamber of Commerce, long may it live, thrive and prosper.

When your friend declines to laugh at your joke just gently remind him that it requires brains to appreciate the really brilliant things of this life.

The fellow who thinks more of his club or a street corner than he does of his wife is on a par with the big dog that steals the little dog's bone.

Young man, beware of the maiden who continually grows at her mother. She will develop into a child, then a mother and a husband.

The dog without teeth seldom holds the bone. And isn't Uncle Sam about in the position of the toothless dog?

Good thing we are not President of these United States. We wouldn't know what to do with the salary and kicks.

Fifteen months of war and not all dead yet!

Fun---Well Done

Pride in the Daily Task.

A quaint story is told to exemplify the pride that every man should take in the work by which he makes a living.

Two street sweepers, seated on a curbstone, were discussing a comrade who had died the day before. "Bill certainly was a good sweeper," said one.

"Yes," conceded the other thoughtfully. "but—don't you think he was a little weak around the lamp-posts?"

In Memoriam.

"My word, Jacob," said Steinberg, "that is a beautiful diamond you have in your pin. How much did it cost?"

"I paid $1,000," replied Jacob.

"One thousand dollars! Good gracious!" exclaimed Steinberg. "Vy, I did not know you were worth so much money."

"Vell, you see," explained Jacob, "ven der old man died he left $1,000 for a stone to be erected to his memory and dis is der stone."

Better Cake and Biscuits

In all receipts calling for baking powder, use Royal Baking Powder. Better and finer food will be the result, and you will safeguard it against a possible dangerous compound.

Look out for adulterated baking powders. Do not permit them to come into your house under any consideration. They may add an injurious substance to your food, destroying in part its digestibility. Doctors will tell you this and it is unquestionable.

Housewives are sometimes led to use inferior baking powders because of deceptive foaming or boiling tests or apparent lower cost, but there is very little difference in practical use, about one cent for a whole cake or pan of biscuits—a mere trifle when you consider the vast difference in healthfulness in favor of food made with Royal Baking Powder.

The Deeper Thanksgiving

Let us be thankful. We have all the usual surface reasons for being thankful. But they do not seem to mean much this year. How can we build our Thanksgiving on them?

We have food enough and to spare. But Belgium has starved, almost, though we have sent her food by the shipload. And Poland has gone hungry, with none to give her to eat.

In what are we better than the Belgian or the Pole, that we dare say, "Oh, Lord, we thank Thee that Thou hast dealt bountifully with us?"

We are at peace with all the world. But millions of people who desired war no more than we did, and who hate it with a hate we can not understand, are under the harrow of the world's most horrible war.

Is our peace so much the fruit of our national goodness that we can include in the catalogue of our Thanksgiving, saying, "God, we thank Thee that Thou hast made us an example to all the world, to show men how peace may be gained and kept?"

And so to the end of the chapter. But today that Thanksgiving which does not accept the gifts of God as a solemn trust sounds like the mockery it is.

We have enough to eat, and to wear, and to use, and more than enough. Some of the peoples at war will soon be giving half their incomes to the government. We shall not be truly thankful unless we show more willingness to use our possessions with something of that same devotion.

We have peace, and never did it seem so rich a prize. But once we went to war to save a struggling nation from the grip of oppression. What will our peace profit us, unless we make of it at least as great a force for righteousness as was Dewey's squadron or Roosevelt's Rough Riders?

As with the nation, so with the individual. To be shiny with smug self-content, to pitch our Thanksgiving anthem on the note of big crops and a good dinner, is to miss the whole spirit of Thanksgiving.

Let us be thankful, but not as the heathen are. For they think a full belly is the sure sign of the gods' approval.

Let us be thankful that we are God's children; remembering that therefore we have a lot of brothers and sisters who need to find their kinfolk.

Let us be thankful for struggle, for the spur of poverty, for the stimulus of large tasks, for the incentive of mastery over difficulties.

Let us be thankful for sacrificial service. There is no order of knighthood so glorious as the Comrades of the Cross.

Let us be thankful that we follow a Captain whose banner over us is Love. —Epworth Herald.

Must Go To Poorhouse.

(Caldwell Record.)
Todd Davis has followed the example of Trigg in stopping the payment of all claims for indigent persons in the county. Real cases of charity will be forced to go to the county farm in the future, just as Trigg is now doing.

Possums Coming To Town.

(Owenton News-Herald.)
The possums in the county are so numerous that many of them are compelled to move to town. One night last week a youngster visited the coop of Mr. Hendley Brown and relieved it of two fine pullets. On the next night the possum came back and was caught in a steel trap.

Large Owl Claw.

(Larue County Herald.)
S. L. Miller, of near Leadale, recently exhibited to the Herald the claw from an owl which he killed one night while it was threatening his chickens. The claw was a very large one, and must have belonged to a fierce owl. The owl was of the "hooping" species and measured almost five feet from tip to tip of its wings.

Heavy Load.

(Pembroke Journal.)
R. L. Wells, manager of the Forbes business in this city, reports having hauled 7,000 pounds of cement on a one-horse wagon. Mr. Wells sent his driver to a car on the railroad track, with instructions to put on a certain number of bags. The driver put on twenty-five more than instructions called for and the faithful old mule that has been pulling the Forbes wagon for years pulled it to the Farmers & Merchants Bank building, where some concrete work is being done.

Pheasant Pays Chickens a Visit.

(Crittenden Record-Press.)
On going into the poultry yard Friday afternoon Mrs. Gwendolin Ford Love, of Near Sheridan, Ky., was surprised to find a strange bird with brilliant plumage walking proudly among her flock of brown leghorns.

The bird did not show a disposition to fly away, so Mrs. Love called her husband and together they viewed the beautiful creature until their curiosity overcame them, and they approached too near, causing the bird to take flight. It flew only a short distance from the yard, alighted and walked calmly and proudly away. The bird was about three feet from beak to end of tail, the tail forming one-half the length. The body was about the size of a leghorn hen, the head and neck were of a rich green color, resembling that of a duck with a ring of white feathers at the base of the neck. The body and tail were copper colored with metallic luster. Its walk was proud and stately. The chickens did not seem frightened at its visitor, but would back away when it approached too near. Mrs. Love consulted an encyclopedia on returning to the house, and found the appearance of the visiting bird and the copper colored pheasants of Japan to be the same.

HOW THANKSGIVING DAY CAME TO US.

In every home in America, preparations are under way for the observance of Thanksgiving Day, next Thursday. It is the day set for general recognition of our blessings and for expression of joy in our happy condition as a people. There is much this year to be thankful for as a nation. The wheels of industry are humming at their height, we have garnered a record harvest, and peace, the blessing that has forsaken so many nations, is still with us.

Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly an American institution. It is not borrowed, as are so many of our holidays, from ancient traditions of the older world or from ecclesiastical calendars. While it has a basis of religious belief in the protective grace of an over-ruling Providence, it has gained its place of supremacy because it stands for the ideal of the community out of which our great republic has grown. At every step in the evolution, this is apparent as the controlling impulse.

The beginning of the real Thanksgiving Day came from the heart and mind of William Bradford, the first Governor of Plymouth. Grateful for the rich harvest of 1621, after a long period of privations and semi-starvation, this good man proclaimed a day of thanksgiving for December 13, old style calendar, of that year. Then did the royal bird of our Thanksgiving dinner tables make his legitimate entrance into the theater of action.

The good Governor, having fixed up on the day of thanksgiving for the Pilgrims, sent out four stout warriors with guns in search of game. These early hunters returned at night staggering under the weight of wild turkeys sufficient to meet the wants of Plymouth for a week. To them were added the goodies concocted by the thrifty housewives of the colony, and when the 13th of December dawned, all was in readiness for the first real American Thanksgiving ever known.

And that was not all. After Elder Brewster's sermon in the church—a matter of two or three hours—dinner followed; and the scent of its goodness seems to have been wafted into the depths of the forest, for in the midst of the feast the Indian yell was heard and a party of a hundred friendly redskins under King Massasoit appeared, bringing with them great haunches of venison. With all this supply of food on hand, it is not strange to learn the day of Thanksgiving lengthened into three, the feast being varied with psalm singing and exhortations; with war dances by the Indians; with military drill by stout Miles Standish's soldiery, and with various sports and pastimes of the more sober English kind.

This was the first Thanksgiving, and others followed more or less regularly down through the years. From Massachusetts the observance spread throughout New England and later obtained national recognition. Washington proclaimed a day of thanksgiving following the successful ending of the War for Independence, and Lincoln did the same after the battle of Gettysburg. Thereafter the last Thursday in November has been designated from Washington, and a national holiday has become established.

It is recorded that on Thanksgiving Day, 1713, the Governor of Connecticut and the king's commissioners were just preparing to fall upon the vultures, when it was announced in horror-stricken tones that the bear prepared for the occasion had been "shot on ye Lord's Day." At that dismal news, the entire gathering declined to touch a morsel of the roast bear, and it was decided that the Indian who shot the animal should be whipped to the extent of thirty stripes and restore the price paid for the meat. Then having inflicted a "just and righteous sentence on ye sinful heathen," the company fell upon the meal with clear consciences and quickly put it out of sight.

TWO-WHEELER SERVES HIM WELL.

R. E. Creswell, a road contractor, of Seymour, Tenn., is one business man of many who recognize the real worth of the motorcycle. Speaking of the service he is getting from his machine, Mr. Creswell said:

"I would not part with my machine at all if I could not get another. The time I save in keeping track of my road work in various localities, and the ease with which I can jump on my machine and be in Knoxville in less than an hour, from the middle of Sevier county, enabling me to personally attend to purchasing my supplies, thereby saving a good amount I would lose by sending or using the telephone, certainly makes my motorcycle a paying investment for me besides the pleasure I get out of its use."

When asked as to what kind of service he was getting out of his machine, he said:

"Although I travel some of the worst sections in Sevier county, and ride my machine right out on the grade work, I have never had a particle of trouble with it since I have been riding. The abundant power and ease of control under trying conditions are the factors in the most excellent service my machine is rendering, and no one could wish for a sweeter running machine."

This machine is giving this service for little more than one cent per mile, a reason why motorcycles are spreading so rapidly and that every rider is a booster.

Women may lack a sense of humor, but they have the men beaten a mile when it comes to getting pleasure out of a cry.

We are specialists in glasses. Why pay $10 to have your eyes examined for glasses when the man who makes the examination doesn't know enough about glasses to make them? If he can't understand a single sense, what do you expect him to know about a complete refracting system like the eye? Better see Simpson about your glasses and have them made right. Your family physician can give you all the medicine you need. If an operation is necessary he will tell you who is competent to do it. Thomas McClintock, the well known stock dealer of Millersburg, bought last week in Nicholas and Bath counties seventeen head of mules and sold eleven mules.

The 3-year-old chestnut colt, Hermit, which is a son of Bourbon King, and out of a daughter of Bourbon Chief 976, and bred by Hon. Claude M. Thomas, of near North Middletown, who sold him to Carl Hays, of Mt. Vernon, Ill., during the last summer, is said to be one of the best horses in Southern Illinois. His exhibition at the Mt. Vernon show was said to have been the feature of that occasion.

M. Von Allman, of Louisville, bought the W. A. Browning farm in Oldham county, paying $16,500 for the 319 acres. Corn sold for $2.50 to $2.60 per barrel. Dairy cows ranged from $50 to $100 per head.

Buyers of army horses gathered up a number in Shelby county at $100 to $120. Hudson Bros., of Louisville, were the chief buyers.

The recent rains ended a drouth of several months in Madison county and farm work now has been laid aside for tobacco stripping.

The new crop of dark tobacco has not begun to move but the prospects are said to be poor. In sales of last year's leaf, the prices have been from 6 to 10 cents.

The Oneucker District Association, representing growers of Allen, Barren, Butler and Warren counties, elected a board to handle the pool this year. C. G. Davenport, of Warren, is president, and E. H. Garrison, secretary. Five thousand acres are planted in the district and the society of equity claims to have pooled already 2,000 acres.

In planting walnuts, hickory nuts or acorns, the nuts should be kept moist from the time they are gathered until they germinate. If they are dry out their vitality is destroyed.

Attendance of farmers upon Court day at Georgetown was below the average and the offering of live stock was very light. The run of cattle was less than a hundred head, most of it being sold by the head. Benjamin Peak, auctioneer, sold one bunch of fat stuff for $6.75, and he estimated that the common grades ranged from $4.50 to $5. No mule colts and no hogs were offered. A number of aged mules were sold privately at from $75 to $150 per head.

Auctioneer M. F. Kenney sold at public auction Saturday morning the m. of Mrs. Laura E. Francis, known as the Col. John Cunningham farm, located on the Iron Works pike, near Paris, to Squire Lee Stephenson, who was acting for Mrs. Annie F. Lehard, of Paris, for $110.25 per acre, or $20,395.25, for the tract of 185 acres.

One of the biggest transactions in Bourbon land consummated this fall was closed last week when Mr. Claude S. Williams, of Woodford county, acting as agent for the Estill heirs, sold at private sale 325 acres of land located on the Avon pike, near Clintonville, and known as the Estill place, to Mr. John Marshall, of Lexington, for $40,635, or about $125 per acre. The balance of the Estill tract, consisting of about 300 acres, adjoining the land just sold, was leased to Mr. Marshall for a term of years. Mr. Marshall will get possession of the land on March 1, 1918.

RIVER NEWS

Herbert Duzan, former second clerk of the steamer city of Louisville, is at home in Manchester, O.

For the first time in history, under present conditions, so far as records on file at the office of the assistant engineer at Cincinnati show, Locks 4, 5, 6 and 7 will be kept up during the rise in the Kanawha river.

A forty-seven foot tide in the Cumberland and South Fork rivers brought the Kentucky Lumber Company 21,000 logs, which, it is thought, will furnish a six months' run in their mill at Burnside. This is the largest tide of the season.

Major George R. Spaulding, officer in charge of Cincinnati District No. 2, Corps of Engineers, announced Thursday that the new channel at Nine-Mile sandbar is marked by willow log floats, placed twenty feet outside the cut on the bar or Kentucky side. The varying width of the new channel in its present unfinished state precludes the marking of both sides of the cut.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., owner of towboat Harry Brown, that was sunk at Osceola, Ark., November 15, has sent divers to try to raise her. She is sunk in ten feet of water. This is a very dangerous part of the river for sunken steamers, as the sudden rise will probably wreck her.

MAYSVILLE TOBACCO MARKET OPENS DECEMBER 7, 1915

According to all reports, we have a better crop of tobacco this year than usual. We are hopeful that it will bring a good price. There is no reason why it should not, if it is carefully handled and brought to market in good condition. Don't bring it wet. Wait, if necessary.

We will have experienced sorters to carefully unload and properly sort and handle your tobacco, see that it is correctly weighed, have first-class questioners to cry it off and the best sales managers in the district to boost it; and, do everything that can be done to make it bring you the top of the market.

It is our intention to make the Maysville market the best place on earth to sell tobacco. Come in and see the care and pains with which we handle it and you will be convinced. If the average price realized for tobacco in the Burley district, this season, is not higher on the Maysville than any other market it will not be our fault, but a surprise and disappointment to us; because we are determined to spare no just means to that end; and we believe when the season closes that the Maysville market will be in the lead. All we ask of the sellers is to bring your tobacco to market in as good condition as is possible and we will do the rest.

THERE WILL BE NO INCREASE IN THE FEES CHARGED BY US FOR SELLING TOBACCO. THEY WILL BE EXACTLY THE SAME AS HERETOFORE.

The Home, Planters, Independent, Farmers and Central Warehouses will be in charge of polite, competent and experienced tobacco men and clerks; under one management and all run upon the following plan, to wit:

No officer or employee of any of said houses will be permitted to speculate in tobacco. Each and every one of same will be required to give their entire efforts in behalf of the growers and sellers of tobacco.

All tobacco will be carefully unloaded and sorted.

All crops will be sold in the order of their arrival and as soon thereafter as is possible.

All errors and mistakes will be cheerfully and promptly corrected, and no person kept in our employ that is unfair or unaccommodating to any customer.

There will be no commissions or rebates given, or special favors shown any customer. All will be treated fairly and alike.

There will be no paid solicitors to "influence" (bribe) or annoy any one. All money expended will go to the better and quicker handling of the growers' tobacco.

Prompt settlement will be made for all tobacco at the house at which same is sold.

Every basket of tobacco sold through our houses will be guaranteed to the purchaser to be straight and what it shows on the top.

Care, promptness, politeness and accuracy will be the watchwords at each of said houses and a square deal guaranteed every customer.

There has not been any consolidation of the above named warehouse companies. The operation of their respective businesses, upon the above plan and under one management, is in the interest of proper and necessary economy and greater efficiency, and will be the best interests of the growers and sellers of tobacco, and make Maysville the leading loose leaf Burley tobacco market of the country; because, by this arrangement over two hundred and ten thousand feet of floor space, with a daily capacity of over a million and a half pounds of tobacco is open to the equal use of every grower and all are made sure of equal treatment, ample shelter and prompt sales; which is not the case on other markets and has not heretofore been the case here. There will be no "pulling and dragging" for business and holding of sellers here for days for the benefit of any particular warehouse. On the contrary he will be welcome to go where he can get in and get quick sale. All tobacco will be handled with equal care and each house and the sale of same carefully looked after by same officers. There will always be room and is sure to be satisfaction.

To the accomplishment of which ends we most kindly solicit the business, co-operation and assistance of all.

Committee.

TOBACCO FEES RAISED

Ten-Cent Increase in Burley Belt of Three Seasons—Recent Bull Season Given as Cause of Change.

Sunday's Courier-Journal printed the following dispatch from Lexington, Ky., November 20.—That practically all of the loose leaf tobacco sales warehouses of the burley belt of Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio will this season raise their charges for selling tobacco 10 cents on the 100 pounds (one to the surface here to-day, and it is understood the Burley Loose Leaf Tobacco Sales Association, of which almost all of the warehouses are members, at a meeting held here a few days ago, authorized the raise, though the officers of the association decline to either affirm or deny the report of their having taken such action.

It is admitted by warehousemen here that the extra charge will be put into effect throughout the burley region at the beginning of the sales season on December 1. The reason given by others for official reticence on the part of the sales association is that the announcement now would probably "raise a loud howl" from the burley growers who, by this action, will have to pay out hundreds of thousands of dollars more in order to sell their tobacco.

All of the warehousemen who admitted today that the raise of 10 cents a hundred had been agreed on asked that their names be not used when they learned that the officers of the sales association, of which they are all members, had declined to admit that the action would be taken. One of the most prominent warehousemen of this city, however, said: "Yes, all of the warehouses of Lexington, during the coming sales season, will charge 25 cents a hundred and 2 1/2 per cent, instead of 15 cents and 2 1/2 per cent, as heretofore; and all of the loose leaf warehouses of the burley belt will adopt the same course. The reason for the raise is that many of the warehouses claim to have made no money last season, and clamored for the advance in fees. So the increase was authorized a week ago, and the Lexington Tobacco Board of Trade has approved it, as have the warehousemen of Maysville. All of the other loose leaf warehouses will follow suit, although there may be a kick from some of the warehousemen in outlying districts."

Several others made similar statements, but withdrew their names. Dr. S. H. Hlatley, president of the Sales Association, was out of town. F. G. Saunders, vice president of the association, said: "I do not wish to make any statement at present."

THE TIME IS DRAWING NEAR.

Each day seems to add excitement to the race for city offices. The candidates are busy sounding out the members of the City Council, while the members are just as busy holding caucuses and trying to get something across. From the present outlook it appears that Maysville will have some new faces on her official map after the first of the year.
